Luggage Mouse from Earth Trek targets travelers

September 16, 2010 · Print This Article

Whenever one makes a purchase decision for luggage, you basically get what you pay for. Something cheap might not necessarily mean it is of good quality, and the same principle is applied to mice by Earth Trek as they tease the Japanese market with their Luggage Mouse. Shaped and designed to look like an actual piece of luggage, that is not only lightweight, but is plus shock-resistant (to a undoubtful extent). It will be made available in the Land of the Rising Sun soon in a quartet of different colors, although pricing details have yet to be released. We don't suppose that is scratch proof?
