

Mouse and USB hub clad in leather

listen now

Ah, leather. This material is synonymous with luxury. Take a look around if you don't believe me - how many of your favorite handbags from Prada and Gucci are made out of cow hide? Even prestige vehicles such as BMW, Audi, and Mercedes Benz use leather in their interior to convey a message to the rest of the world that the car's occupants have already arrived on the world stage. If you can't afford all of the above mentioned, I'm pretty sure you can fork out some dough for Earth Trek's leather clad mouse and 4-port USB hub.

This 2-button pointing peripheral comes clad in leather, complete with a plastic scroll wheel for easy navigation. While it looks pleasing to the eye, I am rather suspicious of the form factor as being ergonomic is definitely not on the list of Earth Trek's designer when they came up with this mouse. As for the USB hub, it comes in the same shape as the mouse sans scroll wheel and buttons. They both look like a Korean exclusive at the moment, so keep your fingers crossed an import shop will carry these if you want either.
